Mr. Korst told how he had been in the electric business for many years and that he had a good opportunity to see the comparative infancy to its present standard. The chances for a young man of the right quality in the electrical business is splendid. Mr. Korst said, and that good opportunity was often met. In response to questions asked by the boys in regard to the underground wiring system, he stated that the field had as yet not developed fully, but that he expected much from it in the future. He also took up electrical heating and the modern storage battery. The talk was full of interest and received with the greatest of attention. Supper was served after which the study classes were held.

Entries for the debating league and for the declamatory contests will hold a meeting tonight immediately after school. The annual local declamatory contests will soon be held. Medals are offered for the winners.

TITLED ENGLISH WOMAN CRANKS "LIZZIE"; ANOTHER ONE FLIES; THEY AIDED IN WAR

Lady Lionel Galloway-Robertson, cranking auto, and Lady Drogheda in her aviation togs.

Of course it's well known by this time that England's noblewomen were not shirkers in war work. They gave their time, energy and large sums of money to start and keep up war institutions. Lady Lionel Galloway-Robertson, the recent best-selling author, is shown above wearing the uniform of the women's legion ambulance transport.

This organization was a valuable adjunct to the British army during the war. She drove her own flivver and took care of it. Lady Drogheda became known to the service as the "Flying Countess." She helped increase interest in the flying service and helped in propaganda work. She is known in America, having made flights in this country last year.

For animation he will play such a tune as "Dixie," while to produce a sad or thoughtful expression "My Old Kentucky Home" may be played.

This Maxwell Truck has 25,000,000 miles behind it

ONE thousand times around the equator is about the mileage of all Maxwell trucks now in use.

What this tremendous mileage has taught may be found in the Maxwell truck you buy today.

For the keen engineering done in this remarkable carrier of freight has not been laboratory engineering but road engineering.

That is why the Maxwell is so practical, why it is so hardy, why it seldom needs mechanical attention, why it is always a delight for engineers to look over.

It is every man's truck. It is not a road rolling monster. Neither is it light and flimsy. It will carry 80% of the different kinds of loads conveyed by horse or motor.

Surprising, of course, is the chassis price—$1085; several hundred dollars less than any other truck of similar capacity. Quantity production is the reason for this.

Pays for itself as it runs. See it and save.

PLANS FOR GERMANY.

Many plans for financing Germany so that she may eventually pay off the enormous debt she has contracted through the machinations of her former military leaders, have been offered. The Wall Street Journal has a solution which appears to be simple and might be effective. It says:
"In these times every newspaper is receiving from its readers suggestions for placing Germany in a position to pay, so far as she ever can, her tremendous debt to the world. The suggestions are of varying merit, and the general comment might be made that they are too complicated. Experience of our own congress should tell us that the second-rate mind fatally meets a complicated problem with a complicated remedy. But the world's great statesmen and administrators do everything to simplify the problem to be faced, and therefore get results."

The proposal has been made which approaches in merit that of a straightforward receivership in bankruptcy for Germany, exercising exactly the powers which the court delegates to the receiver, whose sole business it is to put a going concern way of its legs. This is the businesslike way of handling the problem and simplifying it, but it is feared that we have too many second-rate and "single-track" minds in Paris.

"With a practical administration of Germany's resources, which are unde-nably great, the problem would be far from insoluble. Great Britain has produced administrators equal to the task, and we have no reason to be ashamed of our results in the Philippines, Cuba, and such that and far-flung reconstruction is one of the nobler gifts of the English-speaking race."

"In 1882, on the refusal of France to co-operate, Great Britain occupied Egypt. Sir Evelyn Baring, who afterwards became Lord Cromer, was the British administrator. He found a fiscal system rotten from top to bottom. In two years the Egyptian people steadily advanced from that point. He did nothing sensational.
His official rank was only consul-general, but in practice he was absolute dictator. He sent the dishonest tax collectors to jail—taxes had been stolen all the way up to the Khedive himself. Baring saw that they went into the treasury. The Egyptian peasant was secured in the possession of his property and the right to earn his living, and was no longer taxed to starvation with the rhinoceros kourbash applied to the soles of his feet to extort the last penny."

"The simple secret was the honest and intelligent administration of law.
There was no complicated new financing. The example of a New well-merited hangings had an excellent effect, and we can see in the recent German agitation in Egypt against the British government that a new generation of Egyptians has arisen which has forgotten the former depths of misery. We can understand this for we have had similar experiences ourselves."

WE ARE DISCOVERED.

Janesville as an industrial center as well as a desirable city in attention to live is being called to the attention of the outside world every day. Even New York calls upon Janesville for an idea which may be used to advantage in other cities of the nation.

The Chamber of Commerce is asked almost every day by those attracted to us, for information concerning the city and its environs.
Men are coming to Janesville every week, not only from various parts of the United States, but from other countries.

Let us all be boosters when we are away from home. Tell those you meet about Janesville. Tell them of the big things that are being planned.
We cannot have too much publicity of the right kind. We are now on the map, but let's make the mapmakers draw a circle around Janesville, indicating that it is a bright spot.

MORE HOMES.

Need for immediate location of houses or flats which can be rented at a reasonable figure is being more strongly brought to the attention of business men who are planning expansion and development in their businesses. Last week a first-class mechanic brought his wife to Janesville at the request of a certain employer of skilled labor. He was offered a good job at top wages. He wanted the job. His wife liked the looks of the city. He saw the possibilities of the position. He was ready to accept the place to live was discussed. When he was told he would have to wait until houses were built, he decided not to come here.

Another man, a professional man with a wife and small daughter, was drawn to Janesville because he heard of the big things in the making here.
He was offered a position at a good salary. He wanted the position. He is a clean-cut, upright fellow, who would make a most desirable citizen, and addition to the city's population.

He took up the housing proposition.
If he can obtain the consent of his wife to take the little daughter to the home of her folks for two or three months until he can get a house for which he is willing to pay a reasonable rent, he will come here. If not, Janesville has lost another desirable family. These two cases came to the attention of one employer who could not tell how many others could result from similar instances.

These men are of the class who will rent good homes. They can afford to live in modern houses and are willing to pay a reasonable price for the privilege of doing so.

Build homes for the fellow who wants to "come in. You will make money on your investment even if the cost of construction is higher. Those who rent are willing to give a fair return if you can make them comfortable. Do it now!

Voters of Rock county are going to be impressed with the necessity for permanent good roads, no matter if the speakers booked for meetings in surrounding communities do get stuck in the mud. If they reach the places where their audiences that will concede their audiences that good roads are time and money-saving and if they do not make an appearance because of the bottomless bogs which many of our highways have become, those who are disappointed will realize the futility of continuing under the present system brought to them through demonstration.

It seems to be difficult for the Germans to become enthusiastic over anything they say. Now they are finding fault with the proposed food rations to be allotted by the allies.
Considering the amount of money and food they have wasted in the last four years, they had better tighten their belts a little more and allow the remainder of the world to get a few square meals before they cry for a second helping.

Those who have laid wagers that the legislature would continue to hold the record of being the most deliberate body of law-makers in captivity, as far as length of sessions is concerned, are becoming nervous since the announcement comes out of Madison that the session is two weeks ahead of their schedule and going strong. However, we are in Missouri. The governor has signed only 17 laws in 10 weeks.

No one is going to become very enthusiastic over the appeal to save food for the Russians unless some assurance is given that Lenin and Trotsky will be pried loose from their grip on Russian affairs. It would be well to give those two worthless fellows a chance to have a chance to earn their living by the sweat of their brows."

Kaiser Bill has sawed 1,000 trees into logs since he has been in exile, according to reports coming out of Holland. It is estimated that Hohenzollern has earned about $300 by his toil. "At that rate, Bill will have to work faster if he hopes to see enough ball money to see him through when he is arraigned, before the world court."

Stockholders in the Janesville Housing corporation are urged to attend the initial meeting of that body, Wednesday. The necessary money has been subscribed to finance the housing plan and as soon as the preliminary organization is out of the way, immediate steps toward building homes for future Janesville citizens can be started.

High school students should take advantage of the farm, craft course which is to be offered this spring under the supervision of A. B. West.
Boys and girls can be of great help in raising Victory gardens if they get the useful instruction offered them.

Take a look around the house and see if you cannot find some used clothes which can be cleaned and made ready for the Red Cross. A drive will be started in a few days in which outgrown garments will be gathered up and sent to those who need them.

A man was held in court under $1,500 bail for alleged theft of two cases of beer. It is lucky for him that he did not wait until after July 1st, he may have had to put up a million dollar bond.

THE FREEDOM OF LIFE

According to latest reports, it seems reasonably certain that the Amalgamated Association of Freeholders will come out flat-footed in favor of the freedom of the seize.

Indications point to the fact that the street railway magnates and subway operators of this country will demand the freedom of the squeeze.
Flu patients and those who have had it, seem to be of one accord in favoring the freedom of the sneeze.
It is understood that the Scotland Highland, also Harry Lauder, will announce themselves very soon in favor of the freedom of the knees.
It is expected the comic weeklies will advocate very strongly the freedom of the wheeze.

In Kansas and Nebraska and Oklahoma the people have long been accustomed to and would breeze without the freedom of the sneeze.
The Germans who are advocating the liberation of the interned crown prince may be said to be in favor of the freedom of the chest.

The ladies aid society has adopted resolutions which will be forwarded to Paris favoring the freedom of the tears.

It is quite doubtful if returning drivers will be in favor of the freedom of the fens, but they may.

Nine million attorneys in the United States alone will join in a sigantic movement to enforce the freedom of the pleas.

A LITTLE SLICE OF LIFE.
The young woman sighed
And gazed at the photograph on the table.
"No more," she said, "no more
Will I hear him coming up the walk
At 7 o'clock each evening, Bringing me a bouquet and a box of candy
No more will he sit here on the sofa."

Jim Was Decorated In France

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, March 18, 1879.—Dr. Judd returned last evening after an absence of eight weeks, during which time he visited Texas to his heart's content, visiting Galveston, San Antonio and other places of interest, seeing all there was to be seen. He seems glad to be home again and his friends are certainly glad to have him.

William Cunningham, H. W. Dewey and R. B. Young won the prizes at the first department election last night.

John Simons, who is in the employ of Notbohm Bros., met with a queer accident this morning. He was carrying a tool chest when he stumbled and fell and his right hand was badly crushed by the box, two fingers being injured to such an extent that it is quite probable he will lose one of them, if not both.

Porter—John Ludden, an old and respected resident of Porter, a very estimable man, died at his home here yesterday. He was quite advanced in age and had been a resident of this county 30 years. Many friends will mourn his loss.

Milton—This morning about 7 o'clock the residence of W. E. Ferris, near Milton, was totally destroyed by fire. Most of the contents of the house was saved. The barn narrowly escaped burning, and an adjoining stack nearly caught fire several times.
The fire is supposed to have originated from the chimney. The loss will amount to over $1,500.

And hold me in his arms.
And make endearing speeches and praise
My eyes and my hair and my complexion.

No more will he telephone me Every hour of the day and send Me those little notes inviting me
To the opera or to a dinner down town.

No longer will his car be at my call.
Never again will I know where he is Every minute of the day; and those Sweet confidences, "ah, gone forever!"
The young woman sighed again.

"What's the matter?" asked her friend.
"Have you thrown Henry over and broken your engagement?"

"No," replied the young woman.
And there were tears in her voice.
"Like a little hare-brained chump, I married him yesterday."

Ford to make tag day Saturday a big success, the money to be used in the educational campaign now being staged.

CELEBRATE SIXTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. William Gower, Jefferson avenue, gave a dinner, Sunday in honor of the sixtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. Gower's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Gower of this city.

George W. Gower and Eva Ann Francis were married March 16, 1859 by Justice of the Peace Lucius Fields who had an office at that time in the small building on the site now occupied by the Dr. Thorne Optical shop.

The couple made their home here for about 20 years, moving then to Russell, Kansas. Kansas at that time was a territory and just beginning to grow. They made the trip over in a covered wagon in true pioneer style. There were eight wagons in the caravan making the trip in four weeks. After residing in Kansas for seven years they returned to Rock county.

Upon their return, Mr. Gower purchased the Pettis farm, south of Afton where they lived for a number of years. Disposing of that farm they purchased the Wheeler place in La Prairie where they resided until a few years ago when they moved to this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Gower have three sons, D. W. Gower, Russell, Kans., Charles Gower, Walla Walla, Wash., and William Gower chief of police of this city. They also have eight grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

The guests who enjoyed the celebration were relatives, old friends and neighbors in behalf of those friends, Mrs. Thomas Cox presented the couple with a purse.

All joined in wishing them many happy returns of the day and expressed the hope that they would live to celebrate their diamond anniversary.

HEROES OF MARNE PASS IN REVIEW BEFORE PERSHING

Coblenz, Monday, March 17.—The men of the third division of the American army who fought against the Germans on the Marne and in the last great German drive were inspected, reviewed and presented with decorations by General Pershing today.

Heroes of the fighting at Chatteau-Thierry, in July, in many instances came 10 or 15 miles for the review and bivouacked along the highway leading to the parade grounds.

In addition to the two congressional medals of honor and other American decorations awarded the third division, a number of French and British medals were presented by General Pershing to members of the forty-second division. The medals of honor were given Lieut. George Hays of Oklahoma and Corp. Barkley of Missouri. Brig. Gen. C. E. Blunt, chief of the division, was given the distinguished service medal.

Eighty-eight distinguished service crosses were given to officers and men of the third division. The twelfth aero squadron took photographs of the troops during the inspection, returned to Coblenz, a distance of seven miles, developed the plates, returned and dropped 20 photographs for General Pershing. Dickinson and Howze, all in 50 minutes.

TEXTILE STRIKERS CARRY RED FLAGS; STONE OFFICERS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Lawrence, Mass., March 18.—While the police were trying to break up a parade of textile workers today shots were fired from tenement houses, officers were stoned and persons in the crowd clubbed. Twenty-two arrests were made.

The strikers had picketed the mills. After the gates were closed they formed for a parade. At the head of the line, according to City Marshal J. O'Brien, were red flags. He summed up the scene from police headquarters and read the riot act.

Stones and bottles then were thrown from the outskirts of the crowd. Shots also were fired from nearby houses. Officers arrested all the occupants of the building.

She is described as having "tones of exquisite grandeur" and her technique is incredible for a girl so young. She played Saint Saens' Second Concerto in a manner that showed her to be an artist of mature excellence. She ended her offerings with Liszt's "Rhapsody."

"Banjo Fire" Succeeds Drumfire Amid Blasted Ruins of Verdun

"Waiting on the Levee"—the one that held back the German tide—might be the title of this picture of two Y.M.C.A. entertainers singing and playing for their fellow Americans at Verdun. Regular stages are luxuries in scores of places which the "Y" amusement system serves, and now that the necessity of dodging shells is over, these concerts are regularly presented in surroundings that for picturequeness beat anything that a theater's scenic artist ever invented.

The audience in this case is out of the picture. It has orchestra seats that reach back in

WOLVES OF THE SEA

CHAPTER XI.

The Return of the Boat.
The crew hurried over to the port rail. Beyond doubt most of those aboard realized that this had been an expedition of some importance, the culmination of their long wait on the coast, part of some scheme of their chief, in the spoils of which they expected to share. Moreover this boat approaching through the darkness was bringing back their leader, and how- ever else they might feel toward him, the reckless daring, and audacious resourcefulness of Sanchez meant suc- cess.

I was made to comprehend all this by the low, muttered utterances of those crowding near me, spoken in nearly every language of the world. Much I could not translate, yet enough reached my ears to convince me of the temper of the crew—their feverish eagerness to be again at sea, under command of a captain whom they both hated and feared—a cruel, cold-blooded monster, yet genius in crime, and a natural leader of such men as these, Black Sanchez! I listened to their comments, their expectations, with swiftly beating heart. I alone knew what that boat was bringing. What would be the result when the dead body of their leader came up over the rail?

LeVere shouted an order, and a sudden flare was lighted amidships, the circle of flame illuminating a part of the deck, and spreading out over the wild expanse of water. Scarcely had a minute elapsed before it came sweep- ing into the radius of light—at first a dim, spectral shadow, scarcely to be recognized; then, almost as suddenly, revealed all its details—a boat of size, flying toward us under a lug sail, keeling well over, and topping the sea swells like a bird on wing. LeVere called for men to stand by, the fellows rushing past me, to their stations, but, in the fascination of the moment, I failed to move. I could do nothing but stare out across the intervening water, with eyes fastened on that swiftly approaching boat, I must see, I must know the message it brought; what story it held of the tragedy. Manuel held the tiller, with Estada seated beside him, leaning forward, and ges- ticulating with one hand, as he directed the course. "I had never seen these two, yet I knew them beyond a doubt, Mendez and Anderson (at least I supposed these to be the two) were poised at the sail halyards, ready to let the straining sheet down at a run, while Cochose crouched low in the bow, his black hand uplifted, gripping a coil of rope. Their faces were all turned forward, lighted by the flare from our deck, and I felt a shudder of fear run over me—no expression on any coun- tenance spoke of defeat; even the ugly features of the negro beamed with de- light.

But was that all? Was that all? Surely not. Forward of the single mast was stowed the chest, while in the open space between the helmsman and the two sailors were stretched two motionless bodies. LeVere, gripping a stay-rope, and leaning well out, hailed in Spanish.

"Ahoy, the boat! You can make it?"

"Ay!" came back Estada's voice. "Stand by to fend us off. Call all hands, and break anchor as soon as we are aboard."

"Very well, sir. Where is Captain Sanchez?"

Estada pointed downward in swift, expressive gesture.

"Here at my feet—badly hurt, but will recover. Send two men down to help when we make fast. Now, Cochose—let go of your rope; watch out above!"

I stood, gripping hard at the rail, and staring down at the scene below, as the men in the boat made fast. I felt paralyzed, and helpless, unable to move. I had no business to remain there; every prospect of security de- pended on my joining the crew. Yet only one thought gripped me—Sanchez was not dead! And that other body? That of Dorothy Fairfax, without doubt, yet certainly not lifeless. If their prisoner was the girl—and wh- else could it be?—she remained alive, helplessly bound, to prevent either struggle, or outcry, and destined to a fate far worse than death.

My own life hung in the balance— nay, rather, my doom was already sealed. There seemingly was but one chance for escape left—that was to drop silently overboard. God, up! thawould be the craven act of a coward. Better far to stay, and kill, or even be killed, than to be forever cursed by my own conscience.

The fellows sent down from the main chains to the boat brought the injured captain up first. This required the services of three men, his body hanging limp between them, his up- turned face showing ghastly in the flaring of the torch thrust out over the rail. To every appearance it was apparently a corpse they handled, ex- cept for their tenderness, and a single groan to which the white lips gave ut- terance, when one of the bearers slipped, wrenching the wounded body with a sharp pang of pain. Once safely on deck, the three bore him across to the after cabin and disappeared down the steps.

Estada had already swung himself up into the chains, while Anderson and Mendez were lifting the girl to her feet, and rather roughly urging her forward. Her eyes reflected all the unutterable horror which for the moment dominated her mind, while her loosened hair, disarranged by struggle, only served to intensify the pallor of her face.

won't move, give her a shove. Then tie her up again, and take the turn of a rope round her. What do you think this is—a queen's reception? Move lively, senorita," in mock sarcasm.

Her gaze settled on him, where he hung far out, grasping a backstay, watching the movements below, and her slender form straightened as by the acquisition of new strength.

"If those creatures will take their hands off me," she said, using their tongue without a tremor in the clear voice, "I can easily go up alone. What is it you are so afraid of—a woman?"

The expression of Estada's face promised an outburst of profanity, but, instead of giving it utterance, he lifted his cap in a sudden pretense at gal- lantry.

"Your pardon, senorita," he said in a tone of mockery. "If you have come to your senses at last, it is well. Leave her alone, men. Now, my beauty, I am taking you to your own word—a step, and then the protection of my hand. We welcome you, as a guest aboard."

A moment and she had attained the deck. Estada chose to continue play- ing the fool.

"Thanks, senorita—thanks," he be- gan softly, and again bowing before her, cap in hand. "We greet you with due honor aboard the Namur."

"Enough of that, you coward, you murderer," she broke in coldly. "Do not touch nor speak to me."

She turned her back on him, thus coming face to face with LeVere, who stood enjoying the scene, a wide grin on his dark face, revealing a row of white teeth under a jet-black mustache.

"You, sir—you are an officer?"

"I have charge of the deck."

"Then where am I to go?"

"The mutt, surprised by the sud- den question, glanced inquiringly toward Estada, who had already com- pletely lost his sense of humor.

"Squire, I like to see it. When you wake up again, you'll remember Pedro Estada. How did that feel, you grun- ting pig? Here, LeVere, Manuel, throw this lot into the forecabin. Curse you, here is one more to jog your memory."

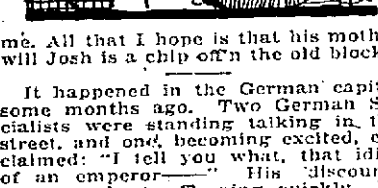

The heavy, iron-shod boot landed full in my face, and every sensation left me as I sank limply back, bloody and unconscious.

Dinner Stories

"You seem very proud of your re- turned soldier boy, Josh."

"Yes," said Farmer Cornstassel; his mother always said he took after his father when he did anything mischievous

It happened in the German capital some months ago. Two German So- cialists were standing talking in the street, and one, becoming excited, ex- claimed: "I tell you what, that idiot of an emperor—"

Before I even suspected what was coming, his unexpected action as swift as the leap of a poised tiger, he struck me fairly between the eyes with the butt of a pistol, and I went down sprawling on the deck. For a mo- ment I seemed, in spite of the vicious- ness of the blow, to retain a spark of consciousness, for I knew he kicked me savagely with his heavy sea boots; I felt the pain, and even heard the words, and curses, accompanying each brutal stroke.

"You drunken dog! You whelp of a sea wolf! You English cur! Take that—damn you! And that! You'll not forget me for awhile. That's it and."

"But my dear," said the wife, after he had complained about the food the new cook had brought in. "You know during these terrible times it is great sacrifices."

"Oh, of course, but what I object to is that cook's making hers in the form of a burnt offering."

Vineland, N. J.—"I am a schoolboy, 17 years of age, and typhoid fever left me weak and debilitated. I had to stay out of school three months—my doctor prescribed Vinol. It has built up my strength and now I am feeling fine." S. E. Buncie.

The reason Vinol was so successful in this boy's case, is because it con- tains beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptones and gly- cerophosphates, the vital elements needed to build up a weak, run- down system, make rich, red blood and create strength. COAL DUST LODGED IN MINER'S LUNGS

Mr. Bunn tells how his cough was conquered and health restored.

"I contracted a bad cold in Novem- ber, 1918. I was working in a coal mine and the doctors said the coal dust had settled in my lungs. Kept getting worse, couldn't lie down on my right side, coughed so I couldn't sleep and had constant pain in my right lung and under my shoulder blades. I coughed up hard the blood would spurt out of my nose. I soon lost 20 pounds. Finally the doctors had me change place and I went to the Cumberland Hotel and lived out doors. But didn't improve."

"Then I came back home and started on Milks Emulsion. That's what did it. I was coughing and had the blood would spurt out of my nose. I soon lost 20 pounds. Finally the doctors had me change place and I went to the Cumberland Hotel and lived out doors. But didn't improve."

YARN FOR CHILDREN'S GARMENTS ON HAND

Quantities of yarn are waiting at the Red Cross work shop to be knitted by nimble fingers into children's garments. And hundreds of little children abroad will be kept warm another winter by these comfortable little garments, fashioned by loving American women. A large quota has been received by the local chapter, comprising the following list of articles: 720 sweaters with sleeves, 315 pairs of long stockings, and 316 mufflers.

This is not as formidable as it sounds, as the garments are for children and are small in comparison with those for men which have been done during the past year. This yarn is some which the Red Cross had on hand at the time of the armistice, and is to be utilized this way as being the most needed at this time. The question has been asked as to why it was not turned into factory work and knitted in that way, but the answer is made that it is not suitable for factory use, being wound into pounds and is not in the form of skeins.

The room will be open tomorrow afternoon to give out the yarn and then will not be open again until Monday afternoon. This quota should be held of with a will and finished up quickly before the coming of warm weather. It is information given by the chairman of the knitting department, Mrs. J. E. Parker.

BRINGING UP FATHER

"Keep you body fit." Dr. MacCormack told the Employed Boys at their dinner at the Y. M. C. A. last evening. Dr. MacCormack who was recently discharged from the United States army, spoke to the young men on the value of keeping fit and described the many things necessary to guard their health.

He recited to the youths the manner in which they should care for their teeth. He told them of the value of clean living.

Robert Cunningham, leader of the Employed Boys class, addressed the boys on "Habits" and recounted the many habits that the boys should strive to overcome.

Mr. Cunningham also touched on the value of clean living and how the boys must guard themselves against the forming of bad habits.

HIGH BASKET FIVE WILL NOT COMPETE IN MILTON TOURNEY

HIGH BASKET FIVE
Janesville high school's basketball team will not enter the Milton college tournament Wednesday and Thursday of this week, according to an announcement made yesterday by Manager A. Z. Zimmermann. Mr. Zimmermann stated that it was deemed advisable by the school authorities for the team not to enter, but that according to present plans the five will meet Beloit on Saturday afternoon.

CHAMPS WILL PLAY BELOIT ON THURSDAY

Two games with the Beloit Fairies this week will complete the Lakota Cardinals' schedule for the season. The Cardinals will play their ancient rivals at the Beloit College gym on Thursday and will stake their last game of the season in this city on next Saturday.

When the final whistle blows on Saturday the Cardinals will close the greatest season ever experienced by any local basketball team. They will close the year as champions of the middle west and winners of the Central A. A. U. tournament.

Word coming from Beloit is to the effect that the backers of the Fairies are not the least bit disturbed by the coming of the champs and ample preparations have been made for their coming.

It is known that the Beloit management had a man at the A. A. U. tournament scouting for players for the two games and it is claimed by one member of the Beloit team that Pease and Johnson, the two winning Owls stars will be in Beloit uniforms on Thursday. Beloit is anxious to win both remaining games and every effort is being made by their management to secure the best material possible for the game.

With Pease and Johnson of the Whiting Owls playing, the Cardinals will have an opportunity of playing the old I. A. C. team which made such an enviable record in 1916 and 1917.

No changes will be made in the Card lineup and the same team that copped the honors in Chicago last week will take the floor on Thursday night. Petitions are being circulated today to secure a large crowd to make the Beloit trip and it is expected that fully 300 fans from this city will invade the Gateway City.

It is planned to have two special coaches on the Chicago and Northwestern road and all those that are planning on making the trip are requested to inform the Cardinal manager before Thursday.

NEW WELTERWEIGHT STAR LOOMS

Walter Laurette.

Ted Lewis, Jack Britton, Soldier Bartfield and Johnny Griffith have been hogging the spotlight in the welterweight boxing division for some time. But right now Walter Laurette is knocking at the door for admittance to the Calcium.

Laurette is a New York boy, twenty-two years old. He reminds of the followers of Harry Greb in his actions.

He recently received his discharge from the merchant marine service, where he saw eight months' duty helping convey U. S. soldiers across the ocean. Since his discharge he has been tuning up his boxing by donating his services in bouts in hospitals for the entertainment of wounded and crippled war heroes.

BUCK WEAVER GOES BACK TO WHITE SOX

Buck Weaver after weeks of angling for more money finally signed up with the White Sox yesterday along with Swede Risberg, another holdout. Charley Deal put his signature to the Cubs contract so as to go on the Spring training trip.

Weaver has been hanging around in Beloit all winter and when up here recently made the statement he would not go back unless he was given more money. He planned to play with the Beloit Fairies, at least that's what he said when he was in Janesville.

Weaver went to Chicago, yesterday, and after talking about 30 minutes with manager Kid Gleason, he agreed to wear a Sox uniform this year.

To Platinize Silver.
Place some platinum in a small quantity of aqua regia or nitro-muriatic acid, and keep it in a warm place a few days; it will dissolve. As soon as it has dissolved, evaporate the liquid at a gentle heat until it is as thick as honey, so-as to get rid of the excess of the nitric and muriatic acids. Add a little water, and it is ready for use. A dozen drops of solution goes a long way in platinizing silver. The operation is performed in a small glass or beaker, covered with a watchglass to keep in the fumes, and placed in a little sand in a saucer, to equalize the heat.

The Turning

By JACK LAWTON

Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.

Down the long white road, came the minister's cutter. It's bells jingled merrily, and the minister awakened from a study by the sight of two branching paths, pulled up his horse, trying to recollect which of the two led to Cutting's Corners.

He had listened absently, during his unappetizing dinner, while the farmer's wife had tirelessly directed him: "Down Pine Hill to Burden's Crossing, then turn— which way?— to Cutting's Corners."

Paul Hyland could not remember; and there was no sign post to give information. It was all so different from what he in his enthusiastic zeal had planned. This first humble charge which even his ability found difficult in fulfilling—the stuffy boarding place, the village church with its weary old members. And now the added charge of afternoon service at Cutting's Corners. He was, in fact, in no sense the man for the place. One older in experience could better understand these people's unchanging needs.

He, in his youth, was fired with the desire for building work. Paul wanted to see things grow about him. He wanted eager faces among the resigned ones in the pews; young cheery voices, in place of hushed and trembling ones in the choir. His innovations were frowned upon. Paul was not sure that his people looked upon him with respect.

His two college chums wrote joyously of their happy fields of neat parsonages, where young devoted wives assisted in their labors. Paul had been too absorbed to devote time to forming attachment. He had wondered while at college at his friends' divided interests. Now they had passed him upon the road to success. He was as much alone and apart in the world as he seemed now, hesitating between two pathways in the midst of the white expanse.

With a momentary return of boyish daring he laughed, turning swiftly to the right; he would take a chance. If after a reasonable time, no church structure appeared, he would reverse his way and try the other road. An impatient waiting congregation would be but another evidence of his unsuitability for this position.

But far down the desolate way, his anxious gaze searched out a white church tower. There were lights in the windows, shining a welcome. The young man's spirits arose involuntarily. He was humming a tune, as he drove the horse around to the adjacent farm. Then Paul entered the edifice. It was larger than he had thought, and more inviting than the church where his regular services were held. But he was earlier than he had anticipated. Except for a girl's figure hovering about the pulpit, the room was empty.

He saw in the bright light that she was grouping flowers about the pulpit, blooming plants which showed loving care. And the girl was humming, too, a bright little song that echoed in one's heart.

Paul came forward, bowing as he removed hat and cloak.

"I am the new pastor," he said to the girl, "are we early?"

As she turned and surveyed him, Paul caught his breath. She was such a lovely girl; her face sweetly appealing, as he had always dreamed one woman's face might be, when he should meet her. And there, with the flowers in her arms and her clear eyes upon him, Paul realized wonderingly, yet with quick assurance, that this was the one woman, whom he had met at last.

"I thought," she replied that you were not to come until four o'clock, though the people will assemble before then. I," she explained, "am a trustee's daughter. I've been trying to make the place look homelike for you."

With the bell tolling its message overhead, the two sat together in an open pew, talking as young people will talk whose aims and aspirations are the same. And when Paul gave his message that day, it found an answer in the eager faces upraised to his.

The trustee paused perplexed when he came to him afterward.

"Your name is Paul Hyland," he said. "Yes, Hyland, is the name of a young minister over at Pine Hill, while we were told to expect an older man named Hilliard."

Then all at once the joyous light left the young preacher's eyes. "I see," he said, "that my being here is a mistake. I must have taken the wrong turn at the crossing."

The trustee grasped the young man's hand.

"Your presence here is certainly not a mistake," he said. We need someone, just like you. Perhaps that was the right turn after all. We will see if a transfer can be made between the churches. I think it can."

And Paul, turning, read approval in the girl's eyes.
